How to Log In and Get Started in an OWL Appointment
When it’s time for your appointment, click on the yellow box where your appointment is scheduled.
When you click on the yellow box, a separate screen will show your appointment details. Click the red link that says “Start or Join Online Consultation.”
After you click the link, your dialogue box with the tutor will open.

If your tutor has already logged in, the upper right corner will show two participants. If not, it will show only one participant.
You can import your paper from Microsoft Word by clicking the button with two arrows at the top of the chat screen.
After clicking the Import/Export button, you can choose a file from your documents. Then, click “Import Now” to import the document into the appointment window.
Click “OK” to finish importing your document.
Once your paper is imported, you and your tutor can chat in the column on the right side of the screen.

Note that you have the option to turn off real time chat updates.

If we take Butler's assertion that Austen's quarrel is not with Marianne, but with her ideologies, and combine that with Johnson's argument that Austen is not
Your tutor will conduct the session in the same way as a face-to-face session as much as possible, with both of you reading the text and discussing and correcting errors as you go.
If you or your tutor wants to discuss a specific portion of the text, you can highlight it and underline or put the font in bold or italics. Any text that you or your tutor modifies will be highlighted in the same color as your chat color.
When your session is finished, you can export your edited document to a variety of file formats. Click the Import/Export button again, and choose the format you would like. After you have clicked the file type, your edited document will automatically be saved to the “Downloads” folder on your computer under a new name. You can change the file name and save it to whichever destination you’d like on your computer.