Robert Van de Motter
The man known as Robert was requested 20-some years ago by a young boy eager to have a brother named Robbie. To the boy’s joy, Robert arrived and thus the family rejoiced. Though Robert chose a path of literary analysis and criticism, his writing roots began with fiction. He found himself drawn to Carbondale, where he obtained a BA in English and is now working on his MA in Literature. He currently haunts Faner Hall in between readings of Moby Dick.